Digest #308

It can be a challenge going on vacation when you publish a weekly news digest. In the past, I've skipped digests from time to time, but not many. I've also been away for weeks at a time and continued to publish without breaking stride. It's a balance. Sometime, however, you simply have to cut the cord, which I did recently (and highly recommend). To simplify reentry I've created one article with all the news I might have published had I been here.

As usual, there's more. Scroll down and see what's up.
